

North Shields Heritology Project

North Shields Heritology Project

The Low Road that runs along North Shields Fish Quay used to be known as "The Street of All Nations" because of the huge diversity in the population. Our aim is to bring this rich heritage, and its many stories, to life using emerging technologies such as Virtual Reality, Immersive Sound and Augmented Reality.

While Digital Technology will help us paint a picture of past lives, the real power will lie in the compelling stories we'll tell of ordinary people living through times of great change. We'll capture memories from local people and bring them to life using Schoolchildren, Writers, Drama Groups and Musicians in way that is both inspiring and informative.

Using portable Technology we'll be able to take Heritage out to those who were previously either unengaged or simply unable to visit sites of interest - Care Homes, Libraries, Schools and other Community spaces are all venues capable of hosting Digital Heritage Events.
